MAIN REPORT ANDERSON / 194

ANDERSON, WAYDE 33194 12/18/2025

On 12/18/2025 at approximately 1927 hours, I, Officer Wayde Anderson #194, and other officers were dispatched to the Hampton Inn located at 3000 Eagandale Place in the city of Eagan for a weapons call. Dispatch notes indicated that federal agents were staying in room 322, and an agent's firearm had been fired in the room.

I arrived and made contact with the federal agent in question whom I identified as Bradley Shaver (DOB: 12/14/1972). Bradley wasn't injured; however, I observed a hole in his sweatshirt that I later learned was caused by the fired 9mm round.

Sergeant Kopp collected a statement from Bradley. See her supplemental report for detailed information. In summary, Bradley was attempting to change the "backstrap" on his department-issued Glock 19 firearm. With his back facing room 320 and the firearm pointed in the area of Bradley's torso he attempted to remove the "backstrap" that was currently on the firearm while it was still loaded. At some point the firearm discharged. The discharged round went through the sweatshirt as well as the shirt that Bradley was wearing underneath it. After exiting Bradley's clothing, the round went through the wall of room 322 and into room 320.

Officer Schafer spoke with the occupant of room 320, identified as Aaron Wukawitz (DOB: 07/02/1993), who had recently checked in and was walking to his room when the incident occurred. See Officer Schafer's supplemental report for more information.

With a master key provided by hotel staff, I entered room 320 to ensure nobody was injured. I observed a hole through the wall that is shared with room 322. On the adjacent wall of room 320 I observed a penetrating hole in the headboard of the bed at the same level as the hole in the other wall. Nobody was in the room at the time.

With the same master key, I also entered room 318 and ensured nobody was injured inside of the room. I inspected the room and located no damage.

Bradley's supervisor, Adam Autio, was contacted and informed of the incident.

The firearm, as well as two magazines, 28 unfired 9mm rounds, the "backstrap", the fired casing, and fabric from Bradley's clothing were entered into evidence for safekeeping. Adam informed officers he would be picking up the firearm for processing.

Photos of Bradley, the firearm, and rooms 322, 320, and 318 were taken and uploaded to the case file.

This ends my involvement in this case. For more information see supplemental reports and body worn camera footage from the incident.

SUPPLEMENT KOPP / 151
KOPP, REBECCA 33151 12/19/2025

On 12/18/2025 at 1828 hours, I was dispatched to 3000 Eagandale Place, The Hampton Inn on the report of a negligent discharge from a firearm in a hotel room. Initial information was being relayed to dispatch from the front desk clerk. She stated that a federal agent staying in room # 322 had an accidental misfire and that the adjacent rooms to this room were vacant. We then received a second call from the agent involved in the incident wanting to ensure that the police were enroute.

I Sgt Kopp, was working as 33S3 that day and responded to the location along with Officers Anderson, Schafer and Fort. We made contact with the front desk clerk, Kaneshia who gave us a master key which would allow us access to the adjacent rooms to check for damage. Kaneshia told us that right before this incident had occurred, she had assigned room #320 to a guest. This guest had been on the third floor and almost to his room when the discharge happened. This guest had since been assigned to a new room.

We then responded to the third floor. The agent involved was waiting in the hallway outside of his room. He was later identified by an Ohio driver's license as Bradley Alan Shaver. Shaver appeared shaken by this incident. He explained that nothing like this has ever happened to him before. He had worked for the federal government for 30 years, retired two years ago and had just recently returned to duty. Shaver had just arrived in Minnesota earlier that day for a 30-day detail. He and several other ICE agents were staying in this hotel.

Shaver showed me his outer sweatshirt, and I could see that it had a large hole in it. He showed me that he was not injured, the round had gone through his clothing only and then into the wall of his room. We walked inside his room, and he pointed to the gun which was on his bed and unloaded. I could also see pieces of black fabric on the bed by the gun. This fabric was from the damage to his sweatshirt. He showed me where the damage was on the wall and then explained how it had happened. In speaking with Shaver, I did not detect any signs of impairment. While I was taking a statement from Shaver the other officers inspected the neighboring rooms to make sure there were no occupants, no possible injuries and to inspect the rooms for damage.

Shaver pointed to a chair in the corner of the room. He was seated in the chair speaking to his wife on speakerphone. His duty weapon, a Glock 19, was holstered on his person. When he stood up, he noticed the backstrap that he had recently mounted on the back of the grip of the gun was now laying on the chair. He unholstered his gun and noticed the pin which holds the backstrap in place was still attached to the grip of the gun. He attempted to reattach the backstrap to the gun but did not unload the gun prior to doing this. He described to me that he was holding the gun by the red dot sight and the back of the weapon while he was trying to wedge the backstrap back onto the grip. As he was doing this, he heard a very loud bang. Initially he thought the gunshot came from somewhere else and he yelled “shots fired” and then told his wife he had to go and hung up. Shaver then felt heat on the left side of his body, looked down and saw the damage to his shirt and realized the shot had some from his own weapon. He said the round went through his sweatshirt and the shirt underneath but did not penetrate his Under Armour compression layer or injure him. Shaver reported he immediately checked the neighboring room by looking through the hole in the wall and saw where the round had struck wood near the bed. He knocked on surrounding doors to ensure no one was injured, then contacted hotel staff and his supervisors. He cleared the weapon and found the spent shell casing still in the barrel which he said surprised him that it had not ejected and he did not have a stovepipe from the next round trying to load. I explained to him that the way he described holding the gun most likely prevented the gun from cycling after it was fired. Therefore, the spent casing would not be ejected, and the next round would not be loaded into the gun. Shaver told me he did not pull the trigger.

I had Shaver show me how he was standing and holding the gun so I could understand how it went through his clothing and into the wall. What he showed me matched up with where the damage was and how this could have occurred.

I recorded the serial number of the Glock 19, [redacted].

After speaking with Shaver, I went and inspected the adjacent rooms for damage. I could see where the 9mm round traveled through his wall and into room #320, straight across that room and stopping when it hit the wood headboard area on the opposite wall. It clearly showed that the bullet had stopped when it hit the wood and did not penetrate through it. The bullet may have fragmented at this point as officers were unable to locate any part of the bullet. Please see Officer Anderson’s photographs for further details regarding the damage.

I then contacted the local supervisor overseeing this detail. He identified himself to me as AFOD (Assistant Field Office Director) Adam Autio. He works out of the office at Fort Snelling. Autio advised me that their firearms personnel would retrieve this weapon for testing and issue a replacement firearm to Shaver. Initially we were going to wait there for this individual to respond but due to the bad weather and road conditions AFOD Autio asked if we could secure the firearm at our police department and he would send someone for it the following day.

Officer Anderson took photographs of the firearm and then collected it for safekeeping until it could be collected by a federal agent. Please see his report for further details.

I provided the case number and my contact information to Shaver and hotel management. I also provided the hotel clerk with AFOD Autio's contact information for follow-up regarding property damage to rooms 320 and 322.

Officer Shafer spoke to one witness, Aaron Wukawitz. Please see his report for further details.

It was clear to me that this was an accident and not intentional. Shaver was upset and apologetic about the incident. He recognized how serious this was and how lucky he was to have not injured anyone else or himself. Shaver did have another partner there with him on that floor and was not alone when we left him.

There will not be any criminal charges in this incident.

SUPPLEMENT SCHAFER/196

SCHAFER, ETHAN 33196 12/19/2025

On 12/18/2025 at 1820 hours, I, Officer Schafer, was dispatched to a call at 3000 Eagandale Pl, the Hampton Inn. Dispatch advised that there were federal agents on scene at the hotel who were staying as guests. One of the agents had a negligent discharge into the wall of his hotel room.

I arrived on scene and assisted with processing in room 322. I was approached in the hallway by a male who was identified as Aaron Wukawitz. Aaron advised me he is staying in room 320, which is the room next door to room 322. He stated he was walking down the hallway toward his room when he heard a loud bang. He initially believed something had blown up. He then entered his room and heard a male saying, "oh fuck, oh fuck". He then looked out of the peep hole in his door to see if anything was happening in the hallway. He stood there for a while then stopped looking. At that point someone knocked at his door. By the time he got to the door there was no one there. He did not feel comfortable opening the door as he was unsure of what had led to the possible gun shot. He then heard a male in the hallway on the phone saying that the gun had accidentally gone off. At this point Aaron was comfortable opening the door and made contact with the male who had fired the round. He was asked right away if he was okay and whether there was anyone else in the other neighboring rooms. Aaron spoke to the man briefly then went to the front desk to get a new room and advised them of what had happened.

Please see other involved officers' reports for further information.

SUPPLEMENT BOEKHOFF / 113

BOEKHOFF, BRIAN 33113 12/19/2025

On 12/19/25 at approximately 0745 hours, John Mock from the Department of Homeland Security responded to the lobby of the Eagan Police Department to retrieve the gun involved in this case. After providing property identification, he signed the Transfer/Release Receipt and was given possession of the handgun. The receipt was turned into clerical to be scanned in this case file.
